SHAKESPEARE'S

Though yet heauen knowes it is but as a tombe
Which hides your life, and shewes not halfe your parts:
If I could write the beauty of your eyes,
And in fresh numbers number all your graces,
The age to come would say this Poet lies,
Such heauenly touches nere toucht earthly faces.
So should my papers (yellowed with their age)
Be scorn'd, like old men of lesse truth then tongue,
And your true rights be term'd a Poets rage,
And stretched miter of an Antique song.
But were some childe of yours aliue that time,
You should liue twife in it, and in my rime.

18.

Shall I compare thee to a Summers day?
Thou art more louely and more temperate:
Rough winds do shake the darling buds of Maie,
And Sommers lease hath all too short a date:
Sometime too hot the eye of heauen shines,
And often is his gold complexion dimm'd,
And euery faire from faire some-time declines,
By chance, or natures changing course vntrim'd:
But thy eternall Sommer shall not fade,
Nor loose possession of that faire thou ow't,
Nor shall death brag thou wandr'ft in his shade,
When in eternall lines to time thou grow'ft,
So long as men can breath or eyes can see,
So long liues this, and this giues life to thee,

19

Deuouring time blunt thou the Lyons pawes,
And make the earth deuoure her owne sweet brood,
Plucke the keene teeth from the fierce Tygers yawes,
And burne the long liu'd Phœnix in her blood,
Make glad and sorry seasons as thou fleet'ft,
And do what ere thou wilt swift-footed time
To the wide world and all her fading sweets:
But I forbid thee one most hainous crime,

The Heart of Community

This April, multi-award winning Latinx fashion designer Anabella Bergero launched Heart of Community at the Project Room—a dynamic exhibition that will run through July showcasing textile art, fashion design pieces, collage, and digitally printed murals that together create a Latinx Pop visual universe.

ANABELLA BERGERO, LA VIRGENCITA, 2023. COURTESY FAENA ART AND THE ARTIST.

Heart of Community offers a mixed media experience that seeks to challenge traditions, gender roles, and identities within Latin American culture,” explains Bergero who was born in Argentina, raised in Mexico, and is now based in Miami. With the premise that art is a continuous state of encounter, Bergero sets in motion different forms of exchange—from creating a visual aesthetic that deconstructs stereotypical notions of Latinidad to repurposing the art space as a community gathering hub with collective acts of co-creation. Thus, the Project Room becomes a space for the celebration, enjoyment and production of creativity. “My goal is to share my culture and build common ground where everyone can express their own sense of self in a stimulating environment.” Her cross-disciplinary approach brings together a curated collection of dress designs, collaged photographs, kitsch iconography, vinyl and wallpaper installations, free tie-dye workshops, and panel conversations with guests from the art and fashion industry. Bergero will also record four podcast episodes of Más Cultura Por Favor with her co-host Yisus Peña and other creatives discussing a range of themes tied to the installation.

By blurring the boundaries between inside and outside—private and public—through a translucent window mural that projects the interior display into the public sphere, Heart of Community makes art an act of enjoyment beyond the walls of the gallery space, inviting her audience and passersby to peek in, explore, and join in her artistic practice. “My first steps into the art and fashion world came after winning the acclaimed competition Fashion Edition Buenos Aires hosted by Faena,” said Bergero, “so this exhibition feels full circle.”

Five Stars

Faena celebrates a handful of exciting recognitions ranking it among the top hotels in the United States.

“At Faena we dream the unimaginable,” founder Alan Faena told Conde Nast Traveler magazine. “We look forward to continuing to expand our frontiers and share our culture and hospitality with the world.” In addition to garnering another Forbes Five-Star rating, Forbes Travel Guide also awarded Faena with ‘Best Hotel Instagram of the Year’ for its evocative content illustrating a wonderland of color, glamour and comfort that expands the imagination and cradles the spirit. U.S. News, a recognized leader in consumer advice and rankings, voted Faena Hotel Miami Beach the 14th best hotel in the United States, one of the top three hotels in Florida as well as in the top three Miami hotels. “Recent lodgers said their stays at the Faena Hotel Miami Beach were next to perfect. Past guests gushed about the staff’s attention to detail and genuine friendliness,” reported U.S. News. Meanwhile, the travel platform TripsToDiscover named Faena Hotel Miami Beach as one of the best five-star hotels in the country praising the property’s “spectacular views, top-notch service and one of Miami’s most beautiful pools.” We’re thrilled to continue making a splash with our passion for gracious hospitality, creative expression and community connection.

FOURTH NIGHT FREE PACKAGE

Savor Summer Longer

There’s so much to taste, see and do at Faena Beach, and we’re gifting guests a fourth night free for extra time to satiate their senses.

Summer is a time for lounging. Sip on freshly muddled cocktails from the comfort of a plush beach bed and doze off to the sound of warm lapping waves. Or amp it up in a fully stocked poolside cabana where five-star service keeps your bubbly chilled all afternoon. Slip into our secret El Secreto Omakase bar for a 17-course tasting menu, where each dish is so packed with global flavors it feels like a journey around the world with every bite. Pao’s new seafood bar is a must-try, as is a Sunday asado at Los Fuegos—a typical Argentine barbecue that brings family and friends together over wood-fired meals. Start your evening with a Smoke and Sparks cocktail and live music in The Living Room before stepping into Allura, a musical multiverse hosted by powerhouse singer Rocky Lanes at Faena Theater. Post-performance, head to Saxony Bar where the scene is as sexy as the crowd and the music makes it a party.

Rehydrate and Replenish

Essential oils have been used for thousands of years for their potent healing properties. Tierra Santa Healing House's range of all natural, hand-blended sacred oils are used to cleanse and energize the body in a range of spa rituals.

Cleanse body, mind and spirit this summer at Tierra Santa Healing House with hydrating treatments, Pranic Healing workshops and a packed calendar of high-vibrational events.

"We tend to lose more nutrients and vitamins in the summer because of the heat and sweat," said Agustina Caminos, the director of the spa. "Tierra Santa offers so many effective ways to rehydrate and replenish the body."

The spa recently began collaborating with Taja Drip to offer IV Vitamin Infusion Therapy. "IV drips are one of the quickest ways to restore hydration and boost the body's energy levels," said Caminos. To combat sun-induced photoaging, book Tierra Santa's new HydraFacial launching this June, which combines cleansing, exfoliation, hydration and potent serums from skincare brands Biologique Recherche and QMS Medicosmetics.

The month of May kicks off with a Wesak Full Moon Meditation led by sound healer Jared Bistrong and Agustina Caminos on Faena Beach. Tierra Santa also welcomes back biohacker Julia Smila on May 12 for a workshop blending cutting-edge technology and holistic methodologies to optimize health, reduce stress and prevent disease. Following a Mother's Day meditation ritual comes a women's empowerment weekend led by Master Marilag Mendoza. At the end of the month, Caminos will lead a three-day Basic Pranic Healing Course that teaches practitioners how to self-heal through energy work and breathing techniques.

June highlights include World Reef Awareness Day with Ximena Caminos, the visionary behind Miami Beach's forthcoming ReefLine; International Yoga Day; and a variety of events hosted by Modern Om and Caminos including Spiritual Sundays—an afternoon festival that takes place on the last Sunday of each month to connect like-minded people through meditation, breathwork and music. Shaman Eric Lopez closes out the month with a powerful Shamanic Family Constellations session.

In July, don't miss a Swim Week purification on the beachfront with Caminos and an opportunity to shop designer swimsuits at the Big Bang spa boutique. There will also be sound healing experiences in the hammam and on July 3, a full moon meditation and sound bath with Jared Bistrong. "Sound is so powerful, within an hour it can transform someone's entire energetic system," said Bistrong.

Sacred Oils

Essential oils have been used for thousands of years for their potent healing properties. Tierra Santa Healing House's range of all natural, hand-blended sacred oils are used to cleanse and energize the body in a range of spa rituals.

"We use lavender, tea tree and sandalwood oils when working with the chakras to help remove stagnant energy from the body," said spa director Agustina Caminos.

In the Tree of Life signature treatment, guests sample the whole range of essential oils to choose an aromatherapy fragrance for the body ritual. As the body rests on a heated bed, a combination of sacred oils is poured onto tension points along the spine followed by a hot stone massage along the body's symbolic Tree of Life starting at the lower back (the roots), along either side of the spine (the trunk), and into the upper shoulders and neck (the branches). A collection of warm Nepalese singing bowls is placed on the lower back, slowly diffusing vibrations to release deep-seated tension in the body.

Jazzy Summer

Multi-grammy award winning musician John Daversa brings his big band sound to the Faena Theater stage this summer, while the Wednesday night Jazz Series is in full swing.

"I've been doing a lot of research," said Brian Forti, executive producer/director of creative entertainment at Faena Theater. "The theater and music scene back in Miami Beach's heyday in the 40s and 50s was built on big band. The Rat Pack, Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Desi Arnaz, Jimmy Durante, Elle Fitzgerald, Elvis Presley all performed at Fontainebleau Hotel's Ronda Room, and they all had big bands behind them."

Faena tapped local artist and educator John Daversa to channel Miami Beach's Golden Era to a modern audience. As an acclaimed trumpeter, arranger, composer, producer, and head of University of Miami's studio and jazz department, Daversa selects the program's most talented students and graduates to take part in his stellar jazz ensemble band, The John Daversa Big Band, which is scheduled to perform on May 21, June 18 and July 30. "He'll play his own music, familiar hits and music he's composed specifically for Faena," said Forti. "He also brings in incredible singers to perform a few songs. It's just magic."

The Faena Jazz series, going strong in its fifth year, continues to be curated by Grammy nominated producer Rachel Faro. "She's really keyed into up-and-coming artists. Jazzmeia Horn, Veronica Swift, Christian Sands, and Samar Joy have all gone on to do great things in their career since they performed at Faena Theater," noted Forti.

This year's lineup has seen the likes of six-string talent Al Di Meola, Icelandic-Chinese singer/songwriter Laufey, and Gabrielle Cavassa, winner of the latest Sarah Vaughn Vocal Jazz Competition. Next up on Wednesday, May 10, is consummate jazz singer Shayna Steele whose latest album 'Gold Dust' recently dropped. With a blockbuster voice that is bound to shake the rafters, Steele comes with much experience performing on Broadway in shows such as Rent and Hairspray, and has sung background vocals for stars including Bette Midler, Rihanna, Moby and Kelly Clarkson before stepping out on her own as a solo artist.

On June 7, New Orleans-born saxophonist and composer "Big Chief" Donald Harrison will showcase his mastery of every style and era including jazz, soul, funk, and orchestral classical music. Heralded as a genius by his peers, Harrison plays Nouveau Swing, smooth jazz and is experimenting with quantum jazz. "The Faena Theater only has 150 seats," said Forti, "so the audience and the artist can feel the magic and energy in the room because it is such an intimate venue."

"We speak different languages, but we communicate deeply through music," said Torres. This connection allows the duo to continuously improvise on stage, delivering performances that are alive with passion, power and soul. "We create new renditions on the spot every night, which keeps it fresh for us and the audience."

Each artist brings their individual flair to a musical score that incorporates Torres' Latin funkadelic tones with Lanes' dominance of styles from Elvis to ABBA to Michael Jackson.

"The vibe of the audience plays a role in our improvisation," said Lanes. "We love when they bring the energy. It shows they're enjoying themselves and it challenges me to hold my notes higher and longer."

Lanes doesn't want guests to come in, sit down, and just watch a bunch of talented people perform. She encourages the crowd to move with the music—to sing, to shout, to dance, to let loose. "We want to give people an experience. If people are feeling good, we've done our job."

As the show's master of ceremonies, Lanes takes viewers on a psychedelic ride through an alternate galaxy where "physics doesn't apply." Cirque cabaret acts defy gravity with a mind-bending display of flexibility, strength, beauty and special effects. Dancers spin from bellhop carts; contort themselves in unimaginable shapes in an aerial net; and heat up the intimate red-velvet theater with an unforgettable choreography.

"Alberto and I are inviting the audience onto our party bus that travels to different dimensions," said Lanes, "with killer music playing on the radio."

The Art of Asado

ARTICLE ORIGINALLY PUBLISHED IN AVENTURA MAGAZINE
BY CHRISTIE GALEANO-DEMOTT

Cooking with fire is an essential part of Argentina's culture. By emulating his mentor Francis Mallmann, chef Sebastián Benítez is sharing his country's traditions at Faena Miami Beach's Los Fuegos restaurant.

1. Patience is key

Embrace the fact that cooking over fire isn't fast and furious. It takes hours. Accept that, Benítez says, and the outcome will be worth it.

2. Practice makes perfect

There's no manual Benítez can share. He says proficiency comes from making mistakes and learning from them.

3. Commit to the investment

Slow cooking needs an investment—in quality produce and proteins as well as time.

4. Build your burn

Start with hardwood charcoal, which offers an even heat and temperature, making it easier to cook with than wood. "You need to understand the language of the wood that is totally different than charcoal," Benítez says. So, work your way up to playing with wood.

5. Choose the right wood

Once you've graduated to wood, Benítez suggests using oak, hickory, or mesquite. Build a chimney-like structure with the logs, making sure there's nothing in the middle of it. In the hole, place a few pieces of paper and light the fire from there. Once the wood is lit, you can add charcoal in the middle.

6. It's all in the prep

First, make sure you have the right cut of meat. For slow cooking, choose a thick cut, like brisket. Then, consider your seasoning. In Argentina, Benítez explains, meat is only seasoned with coarse salt before cooking. That means no brining, rubbing, or marinating. "We're not really famous for putting too much stuff on the meat," he says. Finally, there's temperature. Ensure the meat is at room temperature before placing it over the fire.

Please Your Palate

Championing sustainability and zero waste, the chefs at Pao by Paul Qui use different fermentation techniques to extend the life of short-season ingredients transforming them into palate-pleasing flavors with a whole new profile of tasting notes.

Pao's house-made XO sauce is made with fermented chile fresno, smoked dehydrated fish gills and king crab lumps resulting in an umami sauce that pairs perfectly with a Norwegian-sourced King Crab leg and an accompaniment of morita brown butter.

For the Wagyu Ribeye, no portion of the loin goes to waste. It is cleaned to the bone and the additional meat is used to make a sauce blended with spices and a farro miso-brown butter that is brushed onto the seared ribeye loin. "This process allows us to utilize all parts of the high-quality cut while getting as much flavor as we can from it," said Mauricio Quezada, Sous chef at Pao. The dish is served with a side of a side of celery root and potato frites topped with shio kombu and yuzu kosho alioli.

New dishes that will grace the summer menu include Hiramasa sashimi featuring fermented tomato XO sauce, topped with tomato marmalade dots, fresh Everglade tomatoes, kumquat and cilantro oil.

A vegetarian dish of marinated Chinese eggplant with sawsawan (a Filipino dipping sauce) is served with mustard seed caviar, two-month pickled shimeji mushrooms and a charred eggplant-miso puree. "By pickling our shimejis with our sweet-sour base, we cultivate so much flavor that only a few heads are enough to achieve the balance we were looking for in this dish," explained Quezada.

Trust the Chef

Every two months chef Erik Melendez and sous chef Carlos Islava conjure up 17 new tasting dishes at the six-seat omakase bar El Secreto that respect traditional Japanese preparations, but come with a kick of spicy flavors that showcase their Latin roots.

“I am from Honduras and chef Carlos is from Mexico, so you’ll find a kick of spice from ingredients like jalapenos, chile de arbol and lime,” said Chef Erik. The Kampachi Crudo is a delicious plate of fresh amberjack fish topped with pickled serrano peppers, candied quinoa and an aji amarillo sauce (a spicy Peruvian pepper) seasoned with agave, orange juice and drops of cilantro oil. “We always want to add our own little twist to the dishes.”

Courses feature fresh fish flown in from Japan, New Zealand and Spain including bioluminescent squid, sea bream, golden eye snapper, striped jack, ora king salmon, Japanese butterfish, and bluefin tuna that are paired with unexpected flavors to create an unforgettable bite. Oysters are brightened with lemongrass coconut foam; ceviche is swimming in a bowl of leche de tigre; and Hokkaido scallops are combined with kiwi and charcoal aguachile.

Chef Melendez explains each dish in detail, translating culinary terms like ‘ume boshi,’ ‘ponzu kosho’ and ‘negi dare’ into plain English. He also provides enlightening anecdotes about where ingredients are from and how they are harvested and prepared including aged tuna belly, A5 Japanese wagyu, Wasabi root, fresh ginger and dehydrated caviar.

The menu is laden with pleasant surprises. Surprising flavor combinations (sweet, spicy, umami), surprise dishes diners are challenged to identify, and surprising presentations that feel too beautiful to eat. And each season brings with it a new bounty: The new summer menu will showcase tropical fruits like passionfruit, mango, watermelon and blackberries. “Omakase roughly translates to ‘trust me,’” said Chef Melendez. “I want to give you a culinary experience with the best we have to offer.”

Every night of the week talented local musicians light up the Living Room with live music across genres. There’s Gypsy Jazz from French Horn Collective, Latin classics from Mi Dulce Son, and big band songs from crooner Louis Amanti. On select Thursday nights, guests can groove to Los Wizzards and their signature brand of Miami funk that blends elements of funk, rock, pop, jazz, reggae, hip-hop, and salsa.

Hailing from Venezuela, Jamaica, Cuba and Miami, this group of seven diverse musicians lean into their hometown roots to deliver high-energy performances that effortlessly segue from tropical rhythms to pop to dancehall. “Individually we’ve all been exposed to so many different genres, so when we come together collectively, we all bring those influences to the stage to create something of our own,” said lead singer Roy G. “We always try to bring the party.”

Los Wizzards’ fusion of Latin and Caribbean styles, energies, and flavors has a distinctive sound that’s come to represent the cultural synthesis of Miami itself, garnering the band recognition on the city’s biggest stages. The band won a competition to play at an NBA basketball game at American Airlines arena, and after a giving stellar performance, Los Wizzards was asked to become the Miami Heat’s house band. In addition, front man Samy Hawk won an MTV competition and was selected to be a Pepsi-sponsored artist.

Influenced by greats like Stevie Wonder, Michael Jackson and Bruno Mars, Los Wizzards plays their own compositions interspersed with song riffs from artists like Ginuwine, Ludacris and Daft Punk. Singers Hawk and Roy G. captivate the crowd with their lyrical storytelling, rapping, beatboxing and piquant dance moves, while the instrumentalists delight on the trumpet, trombone, drums and the Venezuelan cuatro (a type of guitar that has almost exclusively been used to play traditional folkloric music until now.)

“Most of the time we’re freestyling with different verses and solos,” said Hawk. “We read the audience and decide what song is perfect for that moment.” Jamming is part of the essence of the band, adds Wizzmer, the band’s founder, leader and cuatro player. Some of Los Wizzards fan-favorite hits include “Spanglish Love,” “Love Me,” and “Now or Never.” Their anthems, which are often delivered atop the lounge’s furniture or from within the thick of a cheering crowd, inject an infectious dose of joy into the Living Room and people can’t help but dance. “When we’re on stage together, our commitment is making people have a great time,” said Wizzmer.

Artist Spotlight Los Wizzards

FEATURED COCKTAIL

Dominican Passion

Talented mixologist Joseph Restani has crafted a cocktail that tastes like a Caribbean paradise in a glass.

The Dominican Passion has a rich foundation of Brugal 1888, an oaky rum from Puerto Plata that’s been double-aged in sherry casks and leaves notes of bourbon, vanilla, red fruits mingled with toffee and cocoa on the palate. The smoothness of the spirit is balanced with the tartness of fresh passionfruit puree, while a house-made cinnamon syrup adds additional sweet notes. The cocktail is finished with a splash of tropical fruit Redbull to add a powerful and refreshing kick, then garnished with a rum-soaked lemon and cinnamon sticks.

CASA FAENA

An Exotic Escape

“Miami Beach in the summer is hot, steamy and sexy, and no place more so than Gitano Miami Beach in the Faena District,” said Gitano founder, James Gardner.

“Come cool off on our jungle rooftop with ocean views and sip a spicy mezcal margarita before heading down to the restaurant to sample our delicious new mushroom sopes with shaved truffles—they are not to be missed,” added Gardner.

The new dish, featuring ingredients like epazote and huitlacoche, is one of many on the summer menu inspired by traditional Mexican recipes from Executive Chef Antonio Maldonado’s hometown of Puebla, Mexico. For a light meal in the summer heat, go for the heirloom tomato and tamarind salad, which comes with sorbet that’s infused with passionfruit and a hint of mezcal.

When coming off the beach, the tacos al pastor are a perfect street-food inspired snack chockfull of Oaxaca cheese, pineapple, achiote marinated pork and salsa jalapeno. “Wash it down with our iconic Jungle Fever, which brings a sense of familiarity and home, whether you’re with us in Tulum, New York or Miami,” Gardner noted.

Heartier fare includes the Duck Carnitas Huarache. “Huarache is a thick tortilla filled with refried beans, chile habanero and cashew, and marinated duck that’s slow cooked for 48 hours. It’s finished with pickled jalapeno and squash blossom,” said Maldonado. The new lamb dish is slow-roasted in the oven for 12 hours in a marinade of adobo chiles and Pacifico beer. “This is a typical dish found in northern Mexico and Guadalajara.”

Those with a sweet tooth can nosh on homemade corn ash churros topped with corn ice cream and mezcal caramel popcorn on the side. Sample Maldonado’s take on a traditional Mexican dessert called “fresas con crema.” Irapuato is full of roadside stands selling freshly picked strawberries and strawberry-and-cream popsicles, the chef explained. “I’ve added bischoff cookies to the recipe, which makes it very tasty!”
